Select Poetry.

LINES ON A SKELETON.

This poem appeared in the London Morning Chronicle, many years ago. A reward of fifty guineas failed to bring out its authorship nor is it yet known.

Behold this ruin! 'Twas a skull,
Once of etherial spirit full;
This narrow cell was Life's retreat,
This space was Thought's mysterious seat.
What beauteous visions filled this spot,
What dreams of pleasure long forgot,
Nor Hope, nor Love, nor Joy, nor Fear,
Have left one trace of record here.

Beneath this mouldering canopy
Once shone the bright and busy eye
But start not at the dismal void—
If social Love that eye employed,
If with no lawless fire it gleamed,
But through the dews of kindness beamed,
That eye shall be forever bright
When stars and sun are sunk in night.

Within this hollow cavern hung
The ready swift and tuneful tongue.
If Falsehood's honey is disdained,
And when it could not praise, was chained;
If bold in Virtue's cause it spoke,
Yet gentle Concord never broke!
This silent tongue shall plead for thee
When Time unvails Eternity.

Say, did those fingers delve the mine?
Or with its envied rubies shine?
To hew the rock, or wear the gem,
Can little now avail to them,
But if the page of Truth they sought,
Or comfort to the mourning brought,
These hands a richer meed shall claim
Than all that wait on Wealth or Fame.

Avails it, whether bare or shod,
These feet the paths of Duty trod?
If from the bowers of Ease they fled,
To seek Affliction's humble shed;
If Grandeur's guilty bribe they spurned,
And home to Virtue's cot returned,
These feet with angel's wings shall vie,
And tread the palace of the sky.

History of the 49th Pennsylvania.

BY A. B. HUTCHISON,

Late Captain of Company "C."

Reverse of the Last—Resignations and Discharges among the Officers—Return of the Colonel and Major—The Second Battle of Fredericksburg—The Movements of Lee—The March towards Pennsylvania.

May 7, 1863, we returned to our old camp at White Oak Church, and settled down for a time in apparent inaction.—The summer heat began to oppress the men, and we were busy in providing shelters for our streets and quarters, and getting our troops again in shape for future action. Nothing of moment occurred in camp, until June 2, when, on account of some dissatisfaction arising from the breaking up of companies, by the consolidation of the regiment, and on account of some personal feeling excited against some of the officers, we had a row in camp at night, that threatened at one time to be serious. It was soon suppressed, however, and the leaders punished, though not with particular severity. A few days after, the writer, while bathing, was stoned by some persons concealed in the woods, but no harm was done, and that was the first and last serious trouble, or anything approaching mutiny, we ever had in the regiment. The only one of the men who was detected, was released, after a time, on the representation of the officers, that he was not an active leader in the trouble, and had always been a good soldier. The really guilty parties, after some time, informed the writer of their connection with it, and of the causes that led to it, and never afterwards, in any way, made trouble, but re-enlisted, in most cases and fought out the war.

June 4, it was evident we were about to move, as the note of preparation had been sounded, and we knew that Lee's Cavalry had moved north, and it was supposed that his Infantry would soon follow. He still kept a force in our front, but they were so plainly to be seen that we inferred they were making a show of strength, while their main body went north, on our right. So, on June 6, we marched to, and across the river, and commenced to build rifle pits, and prepare for the enemy. The sixth corps remained here in front of Longstreet's corps until June 11, nothing being done in the meantime by either to change the situation, but both trying to deceive the other, as to their strength and purpose. On this night we re-crossed the river, and encamped on the northern bank. On the night of the 13th, we marched to Potomac creek, and proceeded to destroy our stores and supplies, our men replenishing their stock at will. The weather was fine, and the scenes, as we burned the various stores, tents, &c., was grand. We had preaching here on the 14th, and marched, the same evening, to Stafford Court House which, like all Virginia Court Houses, consisted of a tavern, a small court-room, a little stone jail, which was burning as we passed, and a house or two.

Here we found our old balloon, of which so much was expected in the way of making reconnoisances, and which had proved so complete a failure that it was here allowed finally and forever to collapse, much to the discommoding of the fancy Colonel whose balloon operations had figured so conspicuously in the papers, and been so little use to us, and to whom this breaking down of the pet humbug, meant the loss of a soft and comfortable place in Uncle Sam's service.

June 15, we moved again, starting early, and had a hard march, through dust and heat, to Dumphries. It was now known that we were going North to meet our old foes on ground of their choosing. The rest of the army was ahead, and we were moved rapidly to join them, having been held back to deceive them as to our purposes. We kept nearer our own Capital, and, moving by a shorter route, also protected the rear of our army, to some extent, from Cavalry attacks.

June 16, we had a more pleasant day, and a better road, and arrived at Occoquan river at noon, having marched sixteen miles. Here, two hours, for rest, dinner, &c., was given the men, and soon thousands were in the clear, bright water, bathing, washing clothes, and enjoying the luxury of cool, clear water, as only a dusty, tired, dirty soldier can. In the evening we moved on to Fairfax Court House, and heard from some of the other corps of the army, and also that the enemy were crossing Maryland into Pennsylvania. The men were greatly excited, and cheered enthusiastically at the intelligence that they should next meet the rebels on Pennsylvania soil. Here we moved camp, joining, again, our old comrades, the 6th Maine and 5th Wisconsin, their Light Division organization being entirely abandoned. We now had the 5th Wisconsin, 6th Maine, 49th and 119th Penn'a brigaded, under command of Gen. David A. Russell. On the 18th of June, we moved our camp again, to a pleasant wood, nearer the Court House, and met a number of our friends in the 2nd Cavalry, whom we had seen but seldom during our service.

On June 21, the Cavalry got into some trouble in our front, the enemy seeming inclined to force their way to the East side of Bull Run Mountains, but the conflict was brief, and not very bloody.

June 25, we commenced our march northward, suffering all day on account of the rain and mud. We encamped near Drainesville, and moved on next morning to Edward's Ferry, where we crossed the river by pontoons. We then encamped, and moved next morning, by way of Banneyville, to Hyattstown, Md., having a considerable amount of rain during the day, bad roads and toll-some marching through fields.

June 29, we moved at 4, A. M., by New Market, Ridgway and Mt. Airy, to Windsor, a distance of twenty-six miles, with muddy roads, and some rain, all day.—The air was full of all sort of rumors of the enemy's movements; of the forming of companies and regiments at home; of the loss of our State Capital; of the devastation of Cumberland Valley; of battles between our troops in front, and the enemy; of a change of commanders, and all the other surmises so rife in an hour of uncertainty. The people generally, in Maryland, seemed glad to see us, and encouraged us to drive out the rebels.—Probably for the reason that they wanted the seat of war shifted to some other locality, as they found it expensive.

June 30, we moved out, and, passing through Westminister, in the direction of Hanover, Pa., where the enemy's Cavalry were reported plundering the country, encamped in the evening near Manchester, and heard, anew, rumors of the approach of the rebels in Pennsylvania. The rain continued, at intervals, and the roads were heavy. Next day, July 1, we remained in camp until near evening, it seeming uncertain what we were next to do, but before night we heard the guns at Gettysburg, thirty-six miles away, and at 9 o'clock, we knew that Reynolds was killed, the 1st corps defeated, and that we must make the thirty-six miles without a halt, and go to the aid of our comrades. The great turning point, though we knew it not, of our struggle, was reached, and the time to decide the gravest of all political issues was come. Our long, eager march to Gettysburg—our part in the fight—and the scenes that followed must, however, have a chapter of their own.

THE last joke at the expense of the French Society for the protection of Animals is to the following effect:

A countryman armed with an immense club presents himself before the President of the society and claims the first prize. He is asked to describe the act of humanity on which he founded his claim.

"I saved the life of a wolf," replies the countryman. "I might have killed him with this bindgeon;" and he swings the weapon in the air to the intense discomfiture of the President.

"But where was the wolf?" inquires the latter; "what had he done to you?"

"He had just devoured my wife," was the reply.

The President reflects an instant, and then says:

"My friend I am of the opinion that you have been sufficiently rewarded."

"I am rich enough," says Pope to Swift, "and can afford to give away a hundred pounds a year. I would not crawl upon the earth without doing good. I will enjoy the pleasure of what I give, by giving it alive, and seeing another enjoy it. When I die, I should be ashamed to leave enough for a monument, if a waning friend is above the ground."

That speech of Pope is enough to immortalize him, independently of his philosophical verses.

A COUNTRYMAN took his seat at a tavern table, opposite to a gentleman who was indulging in a bottle of wine. Supposing the wine to be common property, our unsophisticated country friend helped himself to it, with the gentleman's glass. "That's cool!" exclaimed the owner of the wine, indignantly. "Yes," replied the other; "I should think there was ice in it."

Odds and Ends.

—Sure way to stop a woman's mouth—Kiss it.

—Why is a dog's tail a great novelty? Because no one ever saw it before.

—A Boston paper is in favor of women voting if they want to.' A Western paper 'would like to see the man who could make them vote if they didn't want to.'

—'Old Dog Tray' is so affectingly played by some hand-organs, that troops of pups will squat before the machine, and wipe tears from their eyes with their paws.

—"Where shall I put this paper so as to be sure of seeing it to morrow?" inquired Mary Jane of her brother Charles. "On the looking glass," was her brother's reply.

—A drunken man, having vomited into a basket containing goslings warming by the fire-place, exclaimed in consternation,—"My God, wife, when'd I swaller them things?"

—An Iowa man telegraphed to a sheriff in Illinois directing the arrest of a man who was eloping with his wife. He added "He owes me one hundred dollars. If he pays, let him go."

—A gentleman wishing, not long since, to 'pop the question,' took up the young lady's cat and said, 'pussy, may I have your mistress?' It was answered by the lady, 'Say yes, pussy.'

—A shoemaker, intending to be absent a few days, painted a board with the following, without date, and nailed it upon his door: "Will be at home ten days from the time you see this notice."

—A lawyer on asking a Duchman concerning a pig 'in court.'

"Yes, sir."

"Put a hole through it," ordered the Captain.

The Corporal sighted the gun, and when all was ready, he looked up and said:

"Captain, that's the moon."

"Don't care for that," was the Captain's steady response: "put a hole through it anyhow!"

Harmonies of Providence.

Abstract of a recent Lecture before the Faculty and students of Mt. Union College, by Rev. John Tonner, A. M.

By Harmonies of Providence I mean the marvelous accord and blending of God's attributes, manifesting his essential nature, love, in every department of his government. His name, God, signifies good: not derived from any special attribute, but the centralization of all. In his administrations are apparent the harsher features of justice, yet ever in harmony with love and goodness. Though the theme is boundless, a few illustrations must suffice.

In every acre of fog there is enough electricity to destroy every living thing on that acre; but so masked by goodness, as to be discovered only by scientific apparatus. The sea is formed of gases which, released from combination, would produce general conflagration; but they are restrained in the interests of goodness. The atmosphere is composed of elements easily transformable into poisonous, suffocating compounds. The winds might be let loose in tempests and hurricanes, leveling forests, demolishing houses, leaving only desolation in their wake. The clouds, instead of refreshing the earth with mists and moderate showers, might fall in angry torrents; and, with devastating floods, sweep all before them. The earth's internal fires, bursting forth, might shatter the surface at a stroke; or collapsing, bring down their ceiling, burying nations in the burning abyss. Half an hour's slumber, or withdrawal of Providence, and who could measure a tithe of the disaster that would ensue? He who holds the winds in his fists, and hides his thunderbolt in drifting vapor, is good: else man would not be preserved amidst the magazines of destruction!

In Eden's tragedy, justice and mercy blend. Justice drove forth those who, by transgression, had forfeited all; but mercy placed cherubim and a flaming sword over Eden's entrance, lest eating from the tree of life he live forever, a wretched life, depraved, at enmity with God.

In the Scriptures, holiness is the summing up of all the moral attributes of the Divine Being. His wisdom and power are conspicuous in all that addresses our senses; the former in the adaptation of means to ends, of parts to the harmony of the whole; the latter attesting that "by him were all things made." Minds unlearned in the harmonies of nature, misconceiving the relation that God sustains to his word and works, find in his Providence many causes of complaint.—They depreciate, disparage what God himself has made and done. Even Christians, who should love all that he loves, are sometimes thus guilty. This beautiful world of innumerable varieties, animate and inanimate, of scenery and sounds, fragrances and fruits, was not designed to beget contempt for them, or a reflection upon him who formed them and us; but to inspire with wonder and adoration of their author. To complain of Providence or what God does, is to find fault with God himself. Many of our hymnists have used a license scarcely allowable in speaking of the world.—Some well-meaning Christians declaim against the world, wishing they were out of it; and others believe such decrial the vocal breathings of an advanced state of grace. Should an artist of merit invite you to see the choicest specimens of his genius and toil, would it be a proper return for you to speak disparagingly of his works, and in his presence, too, as many do of God's handiwork, in his own palace of beauty and glory?

There are sad pains, disappointments and afflictions incident to this state of being; yet the good, the beautiful, the joyful greatly predominate. Instances of hereditary ailments, of suffering from the misconduct of others, seem hardships; but there is a compensating feature in God's administration which adjusts all such cases. Interests so varied and complicated can only be governed by general laws now; but a period is fixed when all shall be adjusted in harmony with righteousness. Pains, afflictions, deaths, viewed with candor, from an unselfish stand point, reveal this harmony of Providence.

Our extreme sensitiveness, rendering us so susceptible of pain, also gives capacity for enjoyment. Who feels a pleasure, can feel a pain; who exults and is joyful, can he also be sad. These sensibilities serve, also, another purpose, to discipline and educate us. We come into this world with everything to learn; even to sit, stand, walk. We pay our tuition fee with many a fall and bruise in our efforts to find that philosophical desideratum—the centre of gravity. The senses, mediums of pleasure, avenues of pain, are also teachers, instructing us of the world around us.

Another point to be observed is, justice, which affixes a penalty to every infraction of God's laws. These pains and penalties are both punitive and disciplinary, displaying a wonderful harmony of justice and goodness. The most appalling calamity, and the most certain to befall every one, is death. We see it first as a curse, a consequence of transgression. God's testimony against sin ever near us, the terrible tribute all must pay to justice, the end of all that is flesh. Secondly, we see goodness blent with justice. Death is going away, away from bustle and tumult, leaving all to dwell in a distant land, so distant none ever return, and no echoed words bridge the silent spaces. Painful as may be this leaving, 'tis no more than is voluntarily done almost daily on foreign shores by the numerous emigrants who come to our land. There is goodness in this going away in death. It ends the trouble of anguished hearts, quiets pains that for years have tortured, hushes heart-sores in the silence of earth, gives rest to limbs grown weary with the drudgery of daily toil, closes eyes already dim with the pressure of years. It is the lullaby of the second childhood of decrepitude, and saves the young from many a sore trial, if not disastrous pilgrimage. Go we must; other generations want room, hurrying on, expecting to profit by our having lived before them. Jeremy Taylor said: "Not our leaving, but the manner of leaving, makes death so revolting."—Surely to start on an eternal pilgrimage, not knowing whither bound, is a desperate experiment. Yet the very manner of leaving is a provision of goodness.—Could we know the time or the circumstances of our death, our duties would be neglected, the purposes of our being thwarted, motives to culture and development clipped, ambition unfledged, and gloom would fill the void.

One more general thought. An honest mind may inquire, "How can future eternal punishment be in harmony with the justice and goodness of God?" His laws are the laws of goodness; good in their origin, their objects, their results. Law must be authoritative; its dignity must be maintained by punishment. It is the prerogative of the law-giver to fix the penalty. God says, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." The penalty now under consideration is eternal death.—In the divine administration, justice is the vindication of goodness. It is alleged that such a penalty is beyond the merit of the offence, and unjust; or that there is no just proportion between the penalty and the offence. But who can fix the demerit of sin? Who measure its turpitude, as a basis from which to estimate propositions, but God himself? What do we know about justice, except as learned from God's word? "Irreconcilable with infinite goodness?" Man has a probation here. If it is spent in rebellion, what shall be done with him? He must exist somewhere. Another probation? Would he employ it better? Many reasons to the contrary. Then where should he go? God's word stands pledged to the holy of all the universe, that their bliss shall not be disturbed by his intrusion. "Nothing unholy nor unclean shall enter there." God has but one place for the person of sin, a place prepared for his enemies, an order of beings that sinned without a tempter, and were lost without a Saviour. The Scriptures give it fearful names; it is terrible; it is the prison-house of the universe. God's goodness, as well as justice, requires this colonization of transgressors for the purity and peace of other beings.—Again, even though eternally in that world of woe, goodness will allow none to suffer beyond desert. "It shall be according to their works." As to the reflection on God's justice and goodness from this alleged disproportion, man is placed where, it is comply with the laws of God, his reward shall be life eternal. But if he will not, what should the penalty be but forfeiture of the reward of obedience? Then, when eternal life is lost, eternal death ensues; when heaven is lost, a world of woe ensues.

Such reflections should assist us to see the goodness of our God bl

Slippery Fellows.

We had occasion last week to propound a few questions to the Harrisburg Patriot and State Guard in relation to a list of names, published in the Guard and copied in the Patriot, containing, as they alleged, the names of the "honest members" of the last Legislature. The Patriot, conscience-smitten, and, no doubt, ashamed of the injustice it did, not only to the members whose names it published, but to those it did not publish, attempts an explanation. It charges us with garbling "the article copied from the Patriot, so as to make it appear that we intended to complete the State Guard's list of honest men, by adding the names of Messrs. CLARK and BROWN," and then proceeds to quote what it did say, and its very quotation corroborates our statement, and casts a deeper and blacker suspicion upon that beautiful pair of noble brothers, the Editors of the Patriot and State Guard. The editor of the Patriot admits that he copied the State Guard's list of "honest men," and admits that he suggested the addition of "the name of Hon. J. R. CLARK, of Warren, whom we regard as one of the purest men in the Legislature. Hon, JAMES C. BROWN, of Mercer, also made a good record, especially on the tax-bill." This is in substance what we said; but the Editor of the Patriot attempts a distinction without any difference. It always requires sharp practice to cover up, or work out of dirty little scrapes. Why did the Patriot not think of the name of P. G. MEEK, and say that it might be "safely" added to the Guard's list. Bah! In publishing the Guard's list of "honest men," and suggesting the addition of two names, we ask the Patriot, did you not endorse the list, and the two names you added, and thus, by insinuation at least, admit that all of the other members of the Legislature were dishonest men? This is the only legitimate inference. You and the Guard endorsed and approved W. A. WALLACE and C. J. T. MCINTIRE, and by neglecting to insert the names of J. K. ROBISON, our own Senator from this District, and P. G. MEEK, the Democratic member from this Co., you disapprove their course and create the suspicion that they were dishonest men

But the Patriot says "we have denounced those who, in our judgement, merited denunciation, and as a general rule, refrained from editorial eulogy on those who merited praise, acting on the principle that "good wine needs no bush.'"

Now, we argue that this statement is not correct, and that we have proved that the Editor of the Patriot is without good judgement, or he would not have published the Guard's list. We argue that by adding two additional names to that list he not only approved it, but showed conclusively that his judgement was at fault, or the only other inference, his purse was well filled. Either horn of the dilemma, sir, choose ye! Again: You have, to our knowledge, denounced but one member, and he a Democrat, while you have been pretty lavish of your praise and "editorial eulogy" on others. Your eulogy of P. G. MEEK in your recent article, comes with poor grace at this late day, and your course in relation to the subject in question makes your eulogies rather a doubtful honor. Others, perhaps, may think differently; but we would certainly prefer your censure to your praise. It is so hard for a Democratic Editor to tell the truth, or even adhere to-day to what he printed yesterday, that an honest man's character cannot easily be injured by anything which may emenate from that source; but we are sorry that our old friend of the State Guard has suffered himself to get into, to any degree, or to any extent, such shabby and doubtful company. We again ask that he make the amende honorable by doing J. K. ROBISON, and other honest and pure members of the Legislature, justice.

SPRAGUE'S LETTERS.—One hundred and twenty thousand copies of the Globe, with the private letters printed by Sprague, have just been put in wrappers at the Senate folding room and sent to Sprague in New York, where he is said to have opened some sort of a bureau. The letters cover thirty pages in the Globe in the finest type of that work. A lot just sent off in the mails filled thirty-nine of the largest sized mail bags.

SOME IRISH MAY APPLY.—Michael Scanlon, editor of the Irish Republic (New York city), has been appointed Assessor of Internal Revenue for the Third district of that State—an office worth several thousands of dollars annually. Mr. Scanlon is a man of fine talents, a bold, vigorous writer, a staunch supporter of Republican principles, and a first class representative of the genuine Irish genius and character.

Judge Henry W. Williams.

Thy Harrisburg State Guard, in referring to the fact that Jugde Williams is now sitting on the Supreme Bench at Harrisburg for the first time since his appointment, pays him the following compliment: It is but simple justice to say he fully maintains his well earned reputation as a jurist acquired in the western part of the State, by years of faithful duty on the Bench of the District Court of the county of Allegheny. His dignified and patient hearing of all questions, his uniform courtesy to counsel, his vigor of body and mind, and his evident capacity for labor, and the learning and ability displayed in his written opinions, all unite to proclaim him "the right man in the right place;" and point him out as every way worthy the public confidence, and the high regard in which he is held by the Republican party. As our readers are aware, he now holds his seat only by appointment of Governor Geary, in the place of Judge Strong, who some months ago resigned. We are of those who always considered him fairly and honestly elected by the popular vote in 1867: and that he failed to get his commission by no fault of his own, and for reasons we have frequently explained and denounced in these columns. This was both a public and a private wrong, which should be corrected without delay, and if we mistake not the signs of the times the day of complete vindication is near at hand. The Republican party and the friends of social order owe it to themselves and to the public to re-nominate Judge Williams in June next, for Judge of the Supreme Court, and to elect him in October, by such an overwhelming majority as will stand as a warning in all time to come to those who, by corrupt means, would defeat the popular will. We feel satisfied the members of the bar of all parties rejoice that the seat on the Bench so honorably filled by Judge Strong, is occupied by one so able, efficient and courteous as Judge Williams.

The Irish and the Negroes.

We look upon the following proceedings of a meeting of the Irish Republican Association of Washington, City, D. C., held on the 15th inst., as a move in favor of right and justice.—Our Irish citizens are becoming sensible. The following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That we, the members of the Irish Republican Association, favor the nomination of a competent colored man on the general ticket.

The President of the meeting said: "This is a step in the right direction, and will tend to conquer a prejudice which exists against the race in this city—a prejudice from which the Irish have suffered as well as the colored people. But as both are armed with the ballot now, they can by acting together, defend themselves against prejudice and proscriptive rings. The enemies of one race are the enemies of the other, and the friends of one are friends of the other. Those who applied the lash so unmercifully to the colored man's back tried in and out of Congress to disfranchise the Irishmen and those who have always advocated the freedom of the colored man, such as Sumner, Wilson, Banks and Chandler are advocates of the Irish to day in Congress, and are calling John Bull to account for his antagonism against the United States, as well as against Ireland. All the lives which were lost and the blood which was shed for the freedom of the colored people, and for the preservation of the Union, amount to nothing unless we vote as we fought, viz: for freedom and Union. Remember Daniel O'Connell, the "idol of Ireland, the champion of the colored race."'

Will It Pay?

The question is frequently asked, says an exchange, in regard to the Pacific Railroad by business men and others who have thought some on the subject. The query can be answered better by figures than words. In 1868 there were about one hundred ships plying from the Atlantic Shore around Cape Horn, the tonnage of which was estimated at 80,000; of steamships connecting with China and California at Panama, there were 55, with a tonnage of 120,000, while the tonnage of overland wagon trains, stages, etc., was about 30,000. Here we have 230,000 tons going westward two years ago. The return tonnage by this time is fully as much. We may, therefore, assume that the freight both ways to-day is not less than 500,000 tons. Two years ago there were transported to and fro, over all routes, per annum, 154,000 passengers. If the general rule of the increase of travel, which is deduced from an examination of railroad statistics, holds good, when applied to the Pacific road, these figures will be increased to at least 500,000. We have then 500,000 passengers at $150 each, $75,000,000, and, deducting 200,000 tons to be retained by the ocean routes, 300,000 tons of freight at, say $35, $10,500,000 making a total of $85,000,000 gross proceeds for the whole road.—This must be far above the running expenses, on capital, and wear and tear of material, and we believe it to be not an over-estimate of what the Pacific railroad will earn in the year 1870, when it will be in complete running order. The history of railroads shows that the longest lines pay the best, and we believe that the Pacific road will prove no exception.

A SEVERE gale passed over Galveston, Texas, on Tuesday evening, blowing down a small two story dwelling, and slightly damaging others.

Minister Curtin.

The nomination and confirmation of Hon Andrew G. Curtin as Minister to Russia, is hailed with delight by the Republican press generally throughout not only this State, but the whole country. We do not know that Gov. Curtin's is an exceptional case; but in him is at least exemplified, in a remarkable degree, the fact that the noblest and best-be-loved among men cannot escape the shafts of envy, hatred and malice. There is a certain clique of politicians within the lines of the Republican party, which persistently makes Gov. CURTIN a target for slanderous abuse and malignant misrepresentation—assailing, not only his record as a public man, but even his private character. It must be humiliating, indeed, to these unscrupulous defamers, to find that all their open and secret attacks have been fruitless, that their plagues have only returned to curse the inventors, and that even in the day of bribery and corruption, sterling worth and genuine merit have triumphed over venal chicanery, and demagoguery, in the appointment and confirmation of ANDREW G. CURTIN, to one of the most important missions under our Government.

We do not think there is a Pennsylvanian, whose name is so deeply engraven in the hearts of his fellow citizens of the State, as is that of Gov. CURTIN. There is not a soldier, who left his home to fight for the Stars and Stripes of his country, but loves and cherishes that name; and although Senator CAMERON'S wisdom, patriotism and statesmanship, doubtless contributed much to the welfare of the country in the early days of the late rebellion, yet we feel constrained to take issue with the honorable gentleman in his assertion that Gov. CURTIN is not the choice of the Republican party of this State; for we feel satisfied that in a contest before the people-not the politicians—Gov. C. would lead the Senator five to one—at least if the voice of the press, as we think it may, can be taken as a fair index of popular sentiment.—Tamaqua Journal.

A Few Points.

We clip the following from the Mifflinburg Telegraph of the 13th inst.:

"We take notice that the Democratic papers are endeavoring to make capital against the Republicans of Centre county for removing Maj. Forster, who they now characterize as a brave soldier "in the war for the Union." Do they forget that for that honorable service the Republicans twice nominated and voted for the Major for the Legislature, and he was defeated by the Democrats, and denounced as an "abolitionist, a turncoat and a renegade?" Do they forget that the Republicans gave him the Assessorship for his meritorious services, which they now take away on account of gross ingratitude and desertion to the very enemy whom he professed so heartily to despise? Such men have claims upon Gen. Grant's Administration! Why, sirs, if Johnsonized Republicans were possessed of any susceptibility they could hardly look an honest Republican in the face, much less ask political favors of him.

PETER HERDIC, of Williamsport, is announced as a Republican candidate for Governor.—Montrose Republican.

Well! If uncle Peter gets hold of the crank of the Gubernatorial machine, you may bet your last nickle there will be lively work.—Lewisburg Chronicle.

His conduct last winter gives evidence of his capacity to make a live Radical Governor, but the Good Lord deliver us from any more such rascality.—Jersey Shore Herald.

Poor SEELY! Are you afraid PETER would then lessen your ration of "Pea Nuts"? Don't get uneasy Col., for if "PETE" should be the "favored one" he would not be so cruel to such small "fry."

THE Meadville Republican says:—"The people of Pennsylvania not being sufficiently cursed with the influence which Railroad corporations already exert in State legislation, the Democratic party will probably give itself over, body and soul, to the railroad ring, and nominate Gen. Cass as their standard bearer next fall. With the railroad King as Governor, it might be policy to abolish the legislative branch of the government, and let the railroad corporations run the machine to suit their own notions."

DO NOT our friends of the Bellefonte Republican know that Mr. Wallace is a member of the Committee on the State Library?.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

We confess we had over-looked that fact; but P. G. MEEK was a member of the same Committee in the House, yet he is classed among the dishonest members. The explanation is not satisfactory. Had Mr. MEEK no power as a member of the Library Committee? The State Guard owes an explanation to the Republican press of the State.

THE Hollidaysburg Register says: "Prominent among the candidates mentioned for the nomination for Governor in this State, is General Harry White, of Indiana. The Gen. is acknowledged an able statesman and a gallant soldier, and would, beyond doubt, grace the Gubernatorial chair with dignity, but we can't indulge him this time, as we have the present able Governor Geary to return to that post this fall, and we'll do it, sure."

The Nomination for Governor.

The question of nominating a Republican Governor is now eliciting much discussion. The candidates are Gov. Geary, Major Gen. Hartranft, Hon. W. W. Ketcham, Hon. G. Dawson Calman, Gen. Harry White and Gen. Selfridge. It is said by the knowing ones that thus far Gov. Geary has a majority of the delegates, only one-third having been elected, and that the action of the Republicans of Lancaster, Chester, Delaware, Berks, Bucks, Lebanon and the tier bordering counties on or near Montgomery (the home of Gen. Hartranft) will have the power to decide the nomination. This may or may not be true, but true it is that many active politicians are shaping their course upon this presumption, and it is having nearly all the force of truth; so that it looks now as though the contest for the nomination will be between Geary and Hartranft. With the claims of the former all are familiar, and those of the latter are being pretty generally discussed. Some important information is comprised in the following paragraph, taken from the Norristown Herald:

"Gen. Hartranft has given such universal satisfaction as Auditor General of the State—having been twice chosen by the people to serve in that capacity by most flattering majorities—and has withal such a commendable soldier record, that in all parts of the Commonwealth we see his name earnestly canvassed in this connection.—We have not observed a single Republican journal that contained aught against his nomination, and whilst the press generally commend our present Governor, no opportunity is lost to recommend Hartranft in the most significant terms. We have heard it said that should he receive the nomination it would necessitate another election for Auditor General, and thus give our political opponents an opportunity to select his successor. This, however, is a mistake, it being the duty of the Governor to fill the vacancy in the office of Auditor General for the balance of the term. As a citizen of Montgomery county, Gen. Hartranft has, of course, the special desire of her Republicans for such promotion as his distinguished services, both civil and military, justly demand."

The selection of the convention will probably rest between Geary and Hartranft, and we have faith in the power of the Republican party to elect either of them, or any good nominee.

Gubernatorial Candidates.

Some of the Republican cotemporaries are naming their special favorites for the Gubernatorial nomination on the 23 of June. Thus far Governor Geary has received the most liberal newspaper support, but the Bellefonte Republican is in favor of nominating Gen. John F. Hartranft, the present Auditor General. The Huntingdon Globe has brought forward Hon. D. J. Morrell, the member of Congress for that district. The Luzerne people urge their favorite leader W. W. Ketcham, while Indiana will press Gen. Harry White. The Lehigh Register presents Gen Selfridge. Up to this time there has been a very kind feeling evinced towards all the candidates named. Apparently all are willing to sacrifice any personal preference for the good of the common cause in the success of the candidate nominated, whoever he may be, and we have no disposition to disturb that quiescent kindliness which exists on all sides.

Our Democratic friends on the surface are getting along quite as harmoniously, but beneath it there is considerable jangling. Both their candidates are worth millions—the amount Senator Sprague expressed his contempt for, and when the "stuff" is about, lively times may always be expected among the clean and unwashed Democracy. Judge Packer is not disposed to take kindly the way some of the wire-workers are trying to shove him off the track for Gen. Cass (a paper General), of Pittsburg. Cass is going to win; he knows better how to use his millions than Judge Packer.

With either Cass or Packer as the candidate of the Democracy they will have "the stuff" to keep the "boys" in good spirits, and they will no doubt make the campaign a lively one.—Lancaster Examiner.

THE New York Evening Post calls attention to these interesting facts:

The present century has seen four great events;

1. Morse's invention of the Telegraph.
2. The laying of the Atlantic Cable.
3. The death of Slavery in the U. S.
4. The completion of the Pacific Railway.

In twenty-five years the continent has been spanned by the wires of the telegraph. Ten years ago the lightning began to run beneath the sea.—Five years ago the war for freedom ended, and Slavery died. Yesterday the iron track was made complete from Portland to San Francisco.

The young men of to day, who has seen all these things accomplished, will have tales to tell to his grandchildren such as no grandsire of our day can summon from the stores of his memory.

—The new whipping post and pillory at New Castle, Del., to supply the place of the ancient and worn-out one, was inaugursted on Saturday "with interesting ceremonies." What next?

—The flouring mills and saw mill situated about thirty miles west of St. Louis, belonging to F. Eckermann, were entirely destroyed by fire, on Wednesday night. Loss, $38.000: insurance, $20,000.

—On the 12th inst at Jackson, Mich., Charles D. Knapp, Charles W. Carhart and Charles Messerale, all belonging to Jackson, while fishing in Michigan Central Pond were capsized, and all three were drowned.

—The steamship City of Cork, which arrived at New York on Tuesday, is still detained at Quarantine with six hundred passengers, because one of the passengers had the small pox. All on board have been vaccinated.

—It is stated that Mr. Howard, our new Minister to China, has been in consultation with the President. He urges that the mission to China should be raised to the grade of the British embassy. The President agrees with his views.

—A letter from Raleigh, North Carolina, states that that State is as firmly held in her Republican moorings as either Massachusetts or Vermont. The writer thinks she is good for a Republican majority of thirty or forty thousand for many years to come.

—The work of extending the track of the Jamestown and Franklin Railroad to Oil City will soon commence in earnest, and be pushed to a speedy completion. This extension will be, not only a great benefit to the road, but an advantage to this whole section of country.

—At an early hour Saturday morning an explosion occurred in Bochmer & Co's cotton and oil manufactory in Jersey City, and immediately after the extensive building was wrapped in flames. The building, machinery, stock, etc., were destroyed, involving a loss of $60,000; largely insured.

—The Richmond Whig has a half column of sales of land in Virginia, in all cases to Northern men. It says; "These lands have been purcahsed by bona fide settlers—men who come to be with and of us, and not mere speculators, or those who pitch their tents among us, seeking office and the control of our local affairs."

—The amount of business done at the post office in St. Louis during April, including money orders issued and paid remittances from other post-offices, and postage stamps sold, was over two hundred thousand dollars. The number of letters and paper delivered and collected by carriers for the same time was over 918,000.

The New York Mail says: "We are informed that the stockholders of the Tribune determined at their meeting last evening, to abolish the office of managing editor, and that Mr. Hassard will be in charge of the paper during the day and Mr. Whitelaw Reid at night. Mr. Young thus loses his position, but is not removed from it."

THE FOOLISHNESS OF SHAM DEMOCRACY.—The New York World grumly asks the Cincinnati Enquirer "What kind of Democracy they have in Ohio?" and in return the Enquirer will probably ask "What kind have you got in New York?" both papers being too stupid to discover that in neither State is there any genuine Democracy, but merely "diversified patterns of a shoddy sham."

THE Tribune says: The building of thirty gunboats here for Spanish Government, for service in Cuban waters, is the most practical step we have yet seen taken toward the suppression of the insurrection. The contractors promise them in sixty days. But before that time the special service they are wanted for is likely to be either needless or impracticable.

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

SAVE MONEY.—If you want posters, circulars, bill heads, cards, paper-books, first-class job work, plain or fancy, call at the REPUBLICAN office. All work done at Philadelphia prices.

FARM FOR SALE.—Bond Valentine offers his splendid farm, of 195 acres, within one and a half miles of Bellefonte, for sale. For full particulars, inquire of Mr. Valentine, or at the office of the REPUBLICAN.

MONEY.—We hope the readers of the REPUBLICAN will not forget that our terms are $2 00 per annum, in advance. We must pay cash for everything in connection with our business. As we do not like to dun or beg for money, we hope those of our subscribers, who have not yet paid for their paper, will take the hint, and hand over the scrip without delay."

DIVINE SERVICE.—Rev. J. H. Barnard, formerly pastor of the Presbyterian Congregation in this place, preached, morning and evening, in the Court House, on Sunday last. His subject in the morning was, the "Cross of Christ." The sermon was an able one, and delivered with great earnestness and eloquence. The house was crowded; we think we have never seen the Court House so full. Mr. Barnard has many friends in this community, and their prayers and good wishes will follow him to his home in Wankesha, Wisconsin.

BAKERY.—With pleasure we invite the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Z. T. Gudykunst, baker, &c., Bush's Arcade, Bellefonte, Pa. Mr. Gudykunst has purchased the establishment formerly belonging to Adam Horkheimer, and greatly enlarged and improved his supply of confectioneries, toys, &c. His ice-cream saloon is fitted up in the best style for the accommodation of ladies and gentlemen, and his bakery is one of the very best. His bread, cakes, pies and crackers, are the very best. He is a very worthy man, and deserves to be encouraged and well sustained.

WE are informed that the Committee appointed at the Millheim Railroad meeting to confer with the Pa. R. R Co., fulfilled their appointment. They were cordially met by the officers of the company, who assured them that they stood willing to rail and stock the road as soon as it is ready for the rails. Moreover, they intend sending a number of engineers over the route, to examine and report upon its feasibility and advantages. This looks well, and the prospect is all the fairer, because the company is wealthy and independent, and therefore they hold out no inducements, and make no promises which they do not mean to stand up to. When this company says "work," they mean it. Let us all join hands, and prepare the road at once.—Chronicle.

IF you have a discharge from the nose, offensive or otherwise, partial loss of the sense of smell, taste or hearing, eyes watering or weak, feel dull and stupid or debilitated, pain or pressure in the head, take cold easily, you may rest assured that you have the Catarrh. Thousands annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, terminate in consumption and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive or less understood by physicians. R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., is the proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy,—a perfect Specific for Catarrh, "cold in the head," or catarrhal headache which he sends to any address, post paid, for sixty cents, or four packages for $2 00.

Sold by most Druggists everywhere. my19-2t.

DEAD.—With sorrow we learn that G. W. Williams, the young man that was hurt while at work in a steam sawmill, in Huston township, a short time ago, (an account of which we published in the REPUBLICAN,) has died of his injuries.—A short time before he died, great hopes were entertained of his recovery, as he appeared much better; but he grew worse suddenly, and sank very rapidly, until Friday evening, the 7th inst., when death put an end to his sufferings. He leaves an amiable wife and one child to mourn his untimely end. This is a severe stroke on his venerable father. In the last few years he has buried his wife and one daughter. Two of his sons died in the Union army, while fighting for the old flag, and now G. W. struck down in the vigor of manhood, by a fatal accident.—We deeply sympathise with him, and all the friends of the deceased. The funeral took place on Sunday the 9th inst.

THE NEW SCHOOL HOUSE.—Daniel Leyden, Esq., contractor of the new public school-house, has completed the mason work. The building is ready for the roof. This building will be an honor and an ornament to the town. The contract price for building it is, we believe, $13,000, but it will cost, when finished, from $15,000 to $20,000. The school-house and churches in a town are always the true indices of the character and enterprise of the citizens. What then must be the opinion of strangers who may visit our town, six months hence, when our school-house, the new Presbyterian, and the new Episcopalian churches are completed? Mr. Leyden deserves great credit for the energy with which he is pushing the school-house to completion. We hope it will be ready for the occupancy of the schools at the opening of the next session, for our schools, scattered as they now are, do not amount to much. No reflection upon the teachers is intended, but it is impossible for schools to prosper in poor and illy ventilated rooms.

IN the history of the 49th Pa. Vol., of last week's issue, it should read Maj Miles, not Maj Miller, as it occurs.

CORRECTION.—In noticing the time of the holding of the Sabbath School Convention, in our last issue, we should have said the 25th, 26th and 27th of May, instead of June.

MILLINERY.—In an other column of the REPUBLICAN will be seen the advertisement of Pattie Winters, Millinery and Fancy Store, Milesburg, Pa. She has a fine assortment, fully understands her business in all its branches, and having purchased her goods for cash, she is able to sell at reduced prices. The latest fashion plates can always be seen at her store. The ladies of Centre county are invited to visit her store.

For the Republican.

TO YOUNG MEN.—Granting that the use of tobacco may, in some cases, be positively advantageous, though such cases, if they ever occur, are certainly very rare, you, my friends, to whom I address these few words, cannot plead this excuse for your indulgence. You have formed a taste for it, an acquired taste, the gratification of which affords you pleasure. You enjoy your smoke or your quid. You love enjoyment. It is your duty to be happy. God wants you to enjoy life Yet I would I could persuade you to relinquish this enjoyment, because I would have you spend the money, with which you purchase this luxury, in a better way.

Many of you refuse to subscribe for newspapers, and so fail to secure for yourselves a rich source of enjoyment, and a most valuable fund of information; because, as you say, you cannot afford it; and yet, you spend from twenty to fifty dollars a year for tobacco. Believe me, if you leave off your present filthy habit, and adopt the course suggested, you will soon acquire a fondness for reading, a cultivation of taste, which will afford you a far higher enjoyment than you now have. You will never lack for a companion, entertaining and instructive.

I would I could induce you to spend some of the money now wasted, in maintaining membership in literary societies, and library and reading-room associations. Therein is true enjoyment, mingled with true profit. Schuyler Colfax is Vice-President, because of his popularity as Speaker of Congress. This he owes to the proficiency acquired, when a young man, in a literary society.

Many of you deny yourselves the still more substantial benefit of intellectual training in Academies and Colleges; yet you throw away, in the gratification of an unnatural appetite, almost enough to afford you good opportunities for intellectual culture. As far as the value of the soul transcends the value of the body, so far do intellectual enjoyments transcend the fleeting joys of sense, so highly would you gain by an exchange of your source of enjoyment from the sensual to the intellectual. Why not make the exchange? If you do not, you will find the habit, now a ministering servant, affording you enjoyment, eventually transformed into an exacting master.

EX AMARO DULCI.

Pine Grove Mills, Pa, May 14', 69.

BELLEFONTE, May, 8 1869

Messrs. James McManus, Sam'l Linn, Edmund Blanchard, William P. Wilson, A O Furst, A. B. Hutchison, Wm. H. Blair, James A. Beaver and others; Gentlemen:—Your note of the 5th inst., tendering me a complimentary dinner at the Bush House, has just come to hand. In reply, allow me to express my high appreciation of the mark of the continued favor and esteem of so large and respectable a number of my neighbors and townsmen. The improvement of our beautiful borough, and the development of our natural resources, is a subject of common interest to us all, and if my exertions have, in any manner, aided in keeping alive the spirit of improvement, now so evident in every part of our town, it has been largely owing to the aid and encouragement they have received at your hands.

It affords me pleasure, gentlemen, to accept your flattering proposal, and, in accordance with your request, I would name Tuesday, June 1, 1869, as a convenient time.

Very respectfully, yours,

D. G. BUSH.

BEAUTIFUL EXTRACT.—On our first page will be found an abstract of a sermon, delivered by the Rev. John Tonner, A. M., formerly a citizen of this town. We print it first, because of its beauty and intrinsic merit; and second, for the reason that it will afford the many friends of the Rev. gentleman, in this county, great pleasure to read it.

LONG NEEDED.—Bellefonte has long needed just such an establishment as Messrs Baily & Bro., plumbers and gas fitters, have opened, in their splendid room, in the Bush & McClain building, near the depot. They have a splendid assortment of everything belonging to their branch of business. We will have more to say of these gentlemen when we have time to pay them a visit and fully book ourselves.

OUR farmer friends are jubilant over the prospect of fine crops of grain, and no doubt, in imagination, they already hear the song of the reaper, burdening midsummer breezes with its music.—Certainly everything does look very promising in our broad valleys, and, if no blight comes, we may expect an abundant harvest. Fruit, also, promises well. No accounts of frost-killing, to any extent, have yet reached us, Hope no frosts may come to blight our prospects.

OUR Presbyterian friends, of the Old School Branch, certainly deserve great credit for liberality, there being three new churches now being built in this county, within ten miles of each other. One of these, a neat frame structure, is situated on Buffalo Run, near the residence of Rob't Hunter, Esq., another a stone building, is in process of erection at, or near, the Branch, in Harris tp., and last, but not least, is our own substantial stone structure, which is being speedily pushed to completion, on Spring street, in this borough. Can any other section boast of such liberality? May each prove an ante-room of Heaven to the waiting souls of its worshippers, and in the distant future, they will stand as fit monuments to the memory of their liberal-hearted founders, long after they have gone "over the river."

TEMPERANCE.—We neglected last week to notice the fact that Rev. P. Coombe preached on the sinfulness of the license system, in the M. E. Church, on the morning of the 9th inst., and in the Court House in the evening of the same day, to a large and intelligent audience. On Monday night, the 10th inst., he lectured in the Court House, on "The overthrow of the License System, and the Whiskey Ring." He is a powerful speaker, and understands his subject in all its minutia. He declared that his mission was to educate the people, and prepare the public mind for "Prohibition." It is a good work, and the field is an ample one; but we fear that his efforts will never be fully successful until the dawning of the Millennial day, when the Devil will have been chained, and all the enemies of God, and the Right, will be gathered together, Gog and Magog, and cast into the lake, where there will be no ice to cool the whiskey.

DALTON, Wayne county, O., May 9, '69.

FRIEND W. W. BROWN:—As I promised to write to you after I arrived in Ohio, I will now try to be as good as my word. I have been as well as usual since I came here, but some of the family have had very severe colds. With all, we hope you folks in Bellefonte may all be in possession of good health. This has been an unusually cold, wet Spring. There has been some very nice weather, but there has been more cold rain here than has ever been known by old citizens, but no freezing for several weeks. Some of the farmers planted their corn three weeks ago; but I have not planted mine yet. I have sown 21½ acres of oats, and have 22 acres plowed for corn. It goes more like plowing here, than in Half Moon. We have plowed over forty acres this Spring, with two plow shares, that were used for all the farming done last year; and but few of the horses ever have a shoe on. I bought two horses, six and ten years old, respectively, and neither of them ever had a shoe on; so you can judge, for yourself, of the farming. The wheat, in general, looks fine, although some of it was hurt by the winter. Wheat, at this time, is worth $1 40 per bushel; corn 80 to 90 cents, and oats 55 cents.—There is a fine prospect for peaches and cherries; the trees are in full bloom and very full. Apples will be a light crop in this neighborhood, there being but few blossoms. We have bought some green apples, for which we paid 50 cents per bushel. Dried apples are selling at 8 cents per pound. There is a good quality of fruit here. Stock sells high. Good horses sell for $150 to $500. Cattle are high. Milk cows range from $40 to $75. The valuation of property by the Assessors is very high. I have three horses, valued at $80, each, and three cows at $25 each, and one at $25, making, in all, $330, and all my tax will be about $4. Then my household goods was valued at $50, and every man has $59 exempt.—Then I have two days to work on the road, which includes all my tax this year for the different purposes. Labor, per month, is $18 to $20, and they are offering $2 per day for wheat harvest.

There is nothing of particular importance, at this time, to communicate. It cost me $69 to bring my family out, and $25 to bring my goods. We have got set down amongst a nice, quiet, kind set of people. All appears to be going along swimingly. I have not been this long in a place, for many years, without hearing of some stealing, which I have not heard of since I came out here.

There was a man in Somerset failed in getting money to make some payment, this Spring, which caused him to hang himself. Another man, in Bedford co., named Emerick, hung himself, for some unknown cause; and a woman by the name of Mowery drowned herself in the river.

Having nothing more of importance to communicate, I subscribe myself a friend of the Editors. SAMUEL SMITH.

SUCCESS.—Miss. Lembkey, in her excellent millinery and mantua store, in the Bush House, is meeting with abundant success. She is always at her post, ever ready to wait upon the ladies, and large crowds are daily flocking to her store, to examine her splendid stock, and to look at her fashion plates.

DIED.—Col. Andrew Gregg, one of the oldest and most respectable citizens of Centre county, died at his residence, in Central City, on Friday, the 14th inst. His remains were followed to the tomb, in the Bellefonte cemetery, on Saturday, by a large concourse of people—his admirers while living—his mourners since dead.

Col. Gregg represented this district, six years, or two terms, in the State Senate. He was an honest and upright member, a good worker, and always true to his friends. In the business relations of life, he was honest and generous to a fault. No living man can say that Col. Gregg ever wronged him, while all will bear testimony that the poor and the needy always found a willing friend in him. He was, emphatically, the noblest work of God—an honest man.

TRUE.—There is more business done in Bellefonte now, in one week, than was done in six weeks, ten years ago. The railroad has been a great benefit to us; but the first cause of our prosperity is, that our farmers are independent, and becoming more wealthy every day. Our mechanics and laboring men are prospering, and the population increasing rapidly. Under these circumstances, we hold that a merchant who does not advertise in the REPUBLICAN does not understand his business, and will have so few customers, that he will be compelled to take advantage of them to make a living. Again we say to the consumers, to farmers and others, examine well our advertising columns before you purchase. A man that will not invite you, through the paper, to call and examine his stock, is a little bit too stingy, or old-foggyish for you to expect to realize any advantage in the way of a deal. The men who advertise are the most liberal-minded, and the men who desire to increase their business, and accommodate their customers. Obey this advice. Subscribe for, and read the REPUBLICAN, that your days may be long in the land, and the sharpers occupation gone.

THE SOLDIERS' GRAVES.—Gen. Logan, the Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, has designated and set apart the 30th day of May, inst., for the purpose of strewing flowers upon, and beautifying the soldiers' graves.—We hope our patriotic citizens will religiously observe this day, and sacredly and faithfully perform this duty. Our glorious heroes! Our noble dead! Immortal names, that can never die. We would suggest that a meeting of the citizens be called, without delay, in the Court House, to appoint committees and to make every necessary arrangement for the performance of this duty. We would also suggest that arrangements be made, and money raised at this meeting, for the purpose of repairing, cleaning up and beautifying the "old grave yard," where sleeps so many of our relations and friends, those who were near and dear to us. Many of us have fathers, mothers, sisters and brothers, buried in the old grave yard, and all must admit that it is in a very dilapidated condition. It is a duty we owe our friends, ourselves, and the community generally, to beautify and adorn the graves of our dear departed. We hope our citizens will see to it that a meeting be called at once.

THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS.

Some folks are always fretting,
Will their troubles never cease?
Will nothing ever bring them
The blessed boon of peace?

To peace and true contentment
The way is very plain,
And if you'll pay attention
The secret I'll explain.

Smith's home was all confusion,
His wife would scold and fret,
And such a scene I really think
I never shall forget.

His wife would spank the children,
And chase them off to bed;
Set down, and cry as women do,
And wish that she were dead.

She'd call her husband awful names,
A "nasty, horrid man,"
And if he "did'nt change his ways,'
She'd "go right home to 'mam'."

When Smith returned to bed one night,
He thought the matter o'er;
He vowed he'd end this foolish fight—
Have peace at home once more.

Ere long the neighbors noticed
His wife had changed her tone,
And Smith was "gay and happy,"
For he'd bought an "Our Old Home."

Now his wife is every smilling,
And all he wrath has flown;
And she calls her husband "darling,
For he's bought an "Our Old Hom
Smith says his "wife has really
The sweetest temper known,
And everything is lovely
Since he's bo't an 'Our Old Home.'"

And now he takes his comfort;
He's found happiness at last,
And sunbeams bright and glancy
Around his way are cast.

Agricultural Department.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, May 19. '69.

Tree Culture.

Hon. J. M. Edmonds, late Commissioner of the General Land Office, has contributed to the Agricultur'l Department, a valuable paper urging the importance of devoting a lively attention to tree culture. Unless the ravages of the woodman's ax are soon arrested, he predicts that great evils will result to the country. Except in the mountain regions, nearly the whole vast surface from the Atlantic to the Mississippi has been despoiled of primeval forest growth. No where have flat arable lands been allowed to reproduce the forest growth. The inviting fertility of the soil, the great length of time for forest reproduction, the avarice of the people, and a rapidly increasing population have all combined in the appropriation of the land to such uses as promise immediate returns; and such is the policy still prevailing throughout the whole of the lately timbered region. Three-fourths of the original store of timber, he asserts, has already been consumed, and a simple mathematical calculation is only necessary to determine the proportion which the demand and supply will bear to each other at the close as compared with the commencement of this century. The untimbered surface of the plains between the Mississippi and the Pacific amounts to fourteen hundred thousand square miles. By a little artificial effort forests may be gradually extended over this large area. Experiments thus far made have proved immensely successful. Trees to the number of millions have been produced from the seed of almost every forest species by the unaided efforts of a single association in Nebraska.

Observations on Horse-Shoeing.

No person should ever allow his horse to be shod by a farrier who employs, or keeps in his shop, the knife used for cutting away the hoof, shaped like a small shovel, and usually braced against the shoulder when used in shovelling away the horn.

The Almighty designed the frog as an elastic, insensible cushion, on which the horse should walk, as does the fowl and other animals; yet blacksmiths delight in cutting away this most useful part, and thereby expose that which is sensitive to contact with the hard road. No greater folly can be imagined, and to a reasonable man it only requires to be noticed to make the error self-apparent. The blacksmith will argue that he must "cut away the rags," and some are so ignorant as to declare they cut away the frog "to prevent pressure on it;" that is to say, they cut away to prevent the very object of its creation. The frog should never be cut, or any portion; if allowed to take its natural course it becomes a perfect safety-stand and protection to the foot. In colts the frog may be seen in its full vigor and usefulness; but at the first shoeing the knife goes to work, and so it continues whilst there is any frog to cut.—Pub. Royal Society.

Egg-Plants and Tomatoes.

Every person can raise his own tomato and egg-plants with little trouble. Select a warm border, enrich heavily with horse manure, pulverize the ground thoroughly, and sow pretty thickly, thinning out if neccessary. A common window sash or two, raised two or three inches over them, or any kind of supports, will greatly facilitate their vegetation and growth. If they are transplanted into other beds when three or four inches high, so that they shall stand about three inches apart each way, it will cause them to become very stout in the stem, and they will branch considerably, making much stronger and more productive plants. Tomatoes should not be set out for a crop until the ground is warm and weather settled, say the last of April or first of May, the later perhaps the better. Egg-plant should never be set out before the last week in May. We prefer the Fejee tomato, and the Long Purple egg-plant, though many other excellent varieties of the tomato are now introduced, some of which it would be well to cultivate also. Not a day should be lost in getting in the seed.—Germantown Tel.

FOWLS IN ORCHARDS.—The public has yet to learn the full advantage of keeping poultry. Few seem to appreciate what they may do among trees in an orchard. Let any one try them in an orchard of a quarter of an acre, where they may be kept by the picket fence four or five feet high, putting in say 125 fowls, and observe the result. He will avoid the annoyances in the garden, of which so many complain, while they will work among the trees, doing just what is needed and destroying everything that can injure the fruit trees, in the shape of bugs, worms and other insects, and lay a large number of eggs, which are a cash article, to say nothing of the chickens, which pay well for raising at the present time. I have tried it, and know it is so. I have about one hundred fowls, which have worked admirably among my trees, keeping off the insects, and promoting the growth of the orchard. I am satisfied that we have yet to learn the full benefits which may be derived from proper management of fowls, and it is suggested may offer the best way of getting our apple orchards into bearing condition.—Exchange,

LEARNING CALVES TO DRINK.—I will give my treatment of cows and young calves in learning to drink. I let the calf suck until the milk becomes good; this I think is the best remedy for taking the calf from the cow's bag. I then take the calf from the cow in the morning, that is—if it suck the last time in the morning, and leave it until the next morning without offering anything to drink. By this time the calf is hungry, and will be ready to make an effort to drink at the offer. I milk the cow, back the calf into the corner, take it by the under jaw with left hand, which forces the mouth open; then, with some one to hold the dish, I dip some milk with my right hand and pour it in its mouth. I let go the left hand and force its head in the dish while it is lapping its tongue for more milk. It learns to drink soon.

Taking the calf from the cow in the morning, it will not make a noise through the day, and in the night it will lay quiet if the cow is not permitted to remain in sight.—Cor. Rural New Yorker.

HOW TO HAVE PLUMS EVERY YEAR—A correspondent writing to the Country Gentleman, says: Our plum trees are loaded with good fruit every year that we observe the following directions:

Put about a bushel of green manure around the root of each tree, one bushel chip manure on the stable manure, and then a peck of wood ashes on the manure as soon as the snow is off.—Last year there were no plums on trees in this neighborhood except ours. I do not know the names of the sorts we have, but they are, some of them, pale yellow with a little pink on the sunny side, some red with a yellow shade on under side of fruit, and some dark yellow, with red, irregular marks on them. The trees stand on a hillside facing east, and have currant bushes between. We see many plums drop off, stung by the circulio, but plenty remain on the trees and ripen. I think it a pity that those who have trees should not have plums.

APPLE TREE BORER.—In reply to a question by a correspondent of the Club, Dr. Trimble said, at the Farmer's Club:

"When the borer once gets into the wood he cannot be cut out with the knife. He must be punched out with annealed wire. The idea of destroying the pest by driving a nail into the tree is preposterous."

Mr. Carpenter said:

"A simple remedy is to remove the earth for an inch or so the last of May, and wrap a sheet of brown paper about the trunk to the extent of one foot up. This will prevent the deposit of eggs."

Dr. Trimble considered this plan useless. It will not keep the winged beetle from going to the crotch of the tree.

Mr. Paul agreed that the borer will deposit eggs in the branches, but thought the paper process might be advantageous.—Hearth and Home.

CORN IN ILLINOIS.—S. D. A., Rossville, Illinois, writes:

We raised last year an average of sixty-two bushels of corn per acre.—This we stack up in the fields as soon as matured. It makes our feed for fattening cattle. It is hauled into the feed lots and scattered on the ground. The cattle there eat it; the hogs follow the cattle and clean up what is left. This the Eastern farmer calls wasteful; but I notice when they immigrate hither they soon get out of the notion of carrots, turnips, boiled potatoes, &c. Hogs have been contracted for to go to market in May and June, at 8@9c. ₱ lb.; cattle to go May 1, at 7½@8c. ₱ lb. gross. So you see there is a profit in feeding in the West where corn has brought during the winter thirty or forty cents per bushel.

THE Rural New Yorker gives the following as the method of making the English patent harness blacking which is commended for keeping leather soft, and giving it a good polish. Dissolve together over a slow fire, three ounces of turpentine, one ounce of ivory-black and 1 drachm of indigo, to be well pulverized and mixed together. When the wax and turpentine are dissolved add the ivory-black and indigo, and stir till cold.—Apply very thin, and brush afterward.

THE North British Agriculturist says: "To improve the size of potatoes, whether planted with small or large, whole, or even cut potatoes, when the plants are only a few inches high, let the shoot be reduced by pulling up one or two, or at most three of the strongest. The tubers will consequently, be fewer and very much larger, in measure nearly all fit for market and the table." It is easy to try a few rows by way of experiment.

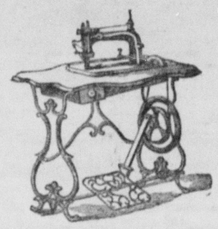
A MEMBER of the Massachusetts legislature is prepared to prove, by a calculation which he has made, that if the town authorities would set out maple trees on the highways, in less than ten years the yield would more than pay the interest on the debts of the towns, and their proportion of the annual tax of the State.

PROF. HORSFORD claims that the best flour can only be made from thoroughly ripened grain, and that more is lost by cutting grain when early than would be by the shelling of the fully ripe grain when harvesting.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.



In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly places it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at
